A Selection of True Short Stories from the Hairdressing Salon - Collection 3 This is the third of a series of A Selection of True Short Stories From the Hairdressing Salon - adapted from a book of over 60 short stories by Sheila Shannon. Number of Word Pages: 25 Number of Words: 13272

 Please note: All collections in this series include a short intro by David Roberts, an (I Am) bio of Sheila Shannon, and a very interesting story of how Sheila decided to go to Beauty School in Montana. Sheila Shannon is a beautician and hairdresser located in the Pacific Northwest just 35 miles south-east of Seattle. In this series, Sheila shares her memories from over 20 years behind the chair in her salon. Some stories are hilarious, and some are sad. But nonetheless they are all true stories and actual happenings from Sheilas days as a hairdresser in Washington State and Beauty School in Montana.. This third ebook of the series sets the scene and introduces you to Sheila who starts off with a bio (I Am) about herself and her history. Sheila tells of her break up with the love of her life, how she ran off to Jackson Hole, Wyoming to try to get over it, and her decision to go to beauty school back in Montana. Stories in Collection 3 include: The Trim Three Rules The Spitter Hair Ball Wake Up Call My Brothers
