

Meditations for Perilous Times

Has your world been turned upside down? When we hear about a school shooting, the devastation wrought by an earthquake, or carnage resulting from the actions of a suicide bomber, it confirms that we live in perilous times. However, experiencing a natural disaster or a terrorist attack isn't the only kind of peril we face as humans. A gas mask might protect you against fatal gas yet be utterly useless when we are exposed to other toxins. Perhaps your crisis is more personal: coping with divorce, death, serious injury or illness, or just holding a family together with many competing needs. Meditations for Perilous Times will help you navigate those troubled waters as you consider your core values. By investing in yourself for a few minutes during each of the next forty days, you can change the trajectory of your life. Young and old alike will find some fresh and refreshing perspectives on scriptural truths contained in this book. If you need help dealing with life's chaos, then Meditations for Perilous Times was written for you.
